Being transparent and providing accessible information to individuals about how we may use personal data is a key element of the Data Protection Act \(DPA\) and the EU General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR). The Department of Justice (DoJ) is committed to building trust and confidence in our ability to process your personal information and protect your privacy.

Purpose for processing

Reducing Offending Policy Unit (ROPU) within the Department of Justice in Northern Ireland is seeking views and comments from interested partners as part of its public consultation on the draft strategy to support and challenge women and girls who come in contact with the justice system. DoJ is not seeking personal data specifically as part of the consultation but is likely to receive contact details including names, addresses and e-mail addresses as part of a consultee's response.

We will process personal data provided in response to consultations for the purpose of informing the development of our policy, guidance, or other regulatory work in the subject area of the request for views. We will publish a summary of the consultation responses and, in most cases, the responses themselves but these will not contain any personal data. We will not publish the names or contact details of respondents, but will include the names of organisations responding.

If you have indicated that you would be interested in keeping up to date on the subject matter of the consultation, then we might process your contact details to get in touch with you.

Lawful basis for processing

The lawful basis we are relying on to process your personal data is Article 6(1)(e) of the GDPR, which allows us to process personal data when this is necessary for the performance of our public tasks in our capacity as a Government Department.

We will only process any special category personal data you provide, which reveals racial or ethnic origin, political opinions, religious belief, health or sexual life/orientation when it is necessary for reasons of substantial public interest under Article 9(2)(g) of the GDPR, in the exercise of the function of the department, and to monitor equality.

What categories of personal data are you processing?

Responses to the consultation will include names and addresses and/or e-mail addresses.

Where do you get my personal data from?

The personal data will originate from the person responding to the consultation.

How will your information be used and shared

We process the information internally for the above stated purpose. We don't intend to share your personal data with any third party. Any specific requests from a third party for us to share your personal data with them will be dealt with in accordance the provisions of the data protection laws.

How long will we keep your information?

We will retain consultation response information until our work on the subject matter of the consultation is complete, and in line with the Department's approved Retention and Disposal Schedule DoJ Retention & Disposal Schedule.

What are your rights?
